2. The Ministry of Machine Construction had already been required by the Office of Reparations to provide for the delivery of a total of 50 passenger ships. Twenty of the ships were to have 1,200 HP engines; the other 30 were to be equipped with 600 HP engines. The Office of Reparations now requires that four 1,200 HP and six 600 HP passenger boats be delivered in 1953.

3. On 4 March 1952, after the proposed plan for 1953 had been discussed by representatives of the Ministry of Machine Construction and representatives of the various shipyards, MV-Schiffbau made the following suggestions concerning the apportioning of work for the 1953 plan:

Lassiauer Schiffswerft
